

THE SBDC HELPS SMALL BUSINESSES ENTER GLOBAL MARKETS >>

Leveraging Our Resource Partners

The SBDC maintains MOUs with the U.S. Commercial Service, and the U.S. Trade and Development Agency, and maintains a close working relationship with the Pennsylvania Department of Community and Economic Development's Office of International Business Development and Regional Export Network. Through these alliances, the SBDC has access to a large pool of knowledge, expertise and technical data to help your company succeed in global markets.

Assisting With Product & Service Promotion

Working with Pennsylvania's Regional Export Network, the SBDCs can connect you to the state's overseas trade offices in more than 70 countries. Services available include a review of your preliminary market assessment by in-country experts available to review your strategy and provide comments to help you fine-tune your approach. SBDC certified international trade consultants also can help you determine if your company may qualify for grants to cover the costs of participating in overseas trade missions, business trips, and trade shows.

WHY YOUR COMPANY SHOULD CONSIDER INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS >>

International markets represent a major growth area for U.S. companies

International markets are becoming more accessible as trade barriers are breaking down

Exporting minimizes risk through market diversification and can offset loss of domestic sales

Selling internationally lengthens production schedules for seasonal products – long-term business success may depend on participation in the global economy

Good markets abroad may still exist for products that have reached the end of their domestic lifecycle

Entering new markets, particularly international markets, challenges a company to stay current with technological developments

International trade boosts profits!

HOW WE CAN HELP >>

Export Consulting

Certified international trade consultants are available for confidential, no-fee, individualized consulting to help you plan your export strategy. Services include:

Getting started – assessing your company's export readiness, conducting international market research, identifying appropriate referrals to other service providers, and compiling international competitors

Taking the next steps – assistance with developing an export marketing plan, importing goods, understanding tariffs and duties, learning about cultural differences, and planning market entry strategies

Refining your global strategy – sourcing materials, interpreting Free Trade Agreements (FTAs), reviewing export compliance and regulations, and generating international sales

Succeeding in international business – preparing for trade shows and trade missions, identifying sources of export financing, mitigating payment risks, and understanding distributor agreements

INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS EDUCATION >>

Educational Programs

As an extension of its consulting services, the SBDCs provide information on international business opportunities, issues and exporting mechanics through introductory, intermediate and advanced level workshops. For a complete list of current workshops, visit pasbdc.org/events.

Sales Leads

The SBDCs utilize a variety of resources populated by State and Federal international trade organizations to identify worldwide trade leads for your products or services. Contact your local SBDC consultant today to learn more about these opportunities for your business by visiting pasbdc.org/centers.

On-Demand Resources

A variety of online resources exist to help small business owners learn about selling internationally.
